Re attached reports on Safety
follow-up:

- Thank you.
- To make the policy clear:
 - Security is responsible for investigating and reporting safety-related conditions.
 - Security is not responsible for any aspect of correcting, (or monitoring the correction action) of safety hazards -- except, of course, when immediate action is needed and is within the capability of the security officer.
 - Chief, SSD is responsible for monitoring correction actions, and -- when necessary -- recommending to EO, TSSG or other appropriate action we should take to obtain corrections.

- Other comments:

- I should hope that a regular review will be made of the status of corrective actions.

- I also hope that the paper work aspects of monitoring corrections can be held to a minimum -- perhaps Security and the "correctors" could agree on a ^(common) work sheet form which would suit the purposes of both.

- Quiet but effective action is our aim -- not flurries of paper. I should never forgive if I became known as "safety-ass

- Thank you again for the results -- move on.
